Foreword

It is with great pride and pleasure that I present Volume 23, No. 1 edition of Africa Journal of Pure and Applied Science Education (AJOPASE), the Journal of the School of Science Education.

The Journal is a peer-reviewed platform dedicated to advancing knowledge, innovation, and best practices in science teaching and learning across NCE, undergraduate, and postgraduate levels. By publishing empirical studies, theoretical insights, and contemporary reviews, the journal stimulates scholarly discourse that informs curriculum development, policy, and classroom practice. Its impact lies in bridging research and practice, empowering educators to improve science instruction and ultimately raising the quality of science education in Nigeria and beyond.

AJOPASE serves two vital purposes: first, as a platform for disseminating rigorous research from within our School and beyond; and second, as a record of the intellectual vitality that defines our academic community.

I commend the Editorial Board for their dedication to maintaining high scholarly standards through a thorough peer-review process. To the authors, thank you for entrusting us with your work. To our readers, I invite you to engage critically with these findings, to question, and to build upon them.

As we look to the future, the School of Science Education is committed to excellence in research, teaching, and service. May this Journal inspire new questions, collaborations, and innovations that will immensely benefit both academia and society at large.

Dr. (Mrs.) C. E. Ejikeme
Dean, School of Science Education
Federal College of Education (Technical) Akoka
Lagos, Nigeria.
