EDITORIAL NOTE

The peer-reviewed, multidisciplinary Bluesland Journal of Arts and Social Sciences (BJASS) publishes high-quality research in the arts, social sciences, humanities, and related fields. It serves as a platform for both quantitative and qualitative studies, with a focus on innovative, intervention-based research that reflects the experiences and contributions of professionals worldwide.

Published quarterly, BJASS is dedicated to advancing scholarship, fostering academic excellence, and promoting the teaching and learning of arts and social sciences. It supports research activities in higher education institutions and encourages intellectual engagement among scholars, practitioners, and policymakers.

We sincerely appreciate the authors, reviewers, and readers who contributed to the success of the other editions. We warmly invite researchers and academics to contribute to upcoming editions as we continue to build a vibrant platform for scholarly exchange and knowledge advancement.
